COAL and NUT COAL FOR SALE.

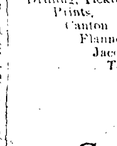
The undersigned is operating a COAL BANK on McKinley's Run, about half way between Rochester and Bolesville, where he will be glad to receive orders for lump or nut coal. Orders can also be left at B. Mulheim's, in Bridgewater, or at John Purvis' in Beaver, or at the above office or at the residence of the undersigned on Market street, Bridgewater. Coal on the platform at all times. Coal delivered at short notice.—Terms cash on delivery. Prices as low as the lowest. [jy5-1y] J. C. MOLTER.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH PERFECT.



EDWARD T. J. & H. J. CHANDLER have purchased the exclusive right of Beaver county to use Dr. Stuck's Patent by which they can put up Vulcanite as thin as Gold Plate, with a beautiful enameled polish; and so light and elastic as to perfectly adapt itself to the mouth; obviating all that clumsy and bulky condition, so much complained of heretofore, and lessening their liability to break per cent. Indeed, no one even, would be willing to wear the old style plate any longer than they could conveniently get them exchanged. All branches of Dentistry performed in the best and most substantial manner. In filling teeth with gold, etc., we challenge competition from any quarter, and can refer to living subjects whose fillings have stood between thirty and forty years. Among the number Hon. John Allison will exhibit fillings we inserted some 35 years ago; the teeth as perfect as the day they were filled. Laughing Gas prepared on a new plan, freeing it from all unpleasantness and dangerous effects, making the extraction of teeth a source of pleasure rather than of horror and pain. Prices as low as any good dentist in the State. Office at Beaver Station, Rochester Pa. nov23tf

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

A Bitters without Alcohol, or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure juices, or Vital Principle of Roots, Herbs and Barks, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore, in one bottle of these Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c, used in this Bitters, are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others; no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use; they cannot make drunkards, and cannot, under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the Tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the Bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1.50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it will most certainly be cheated.

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,

Or Substitute for Mercury Pills

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, yet Innocent, Vegetable Cathartic known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels of all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They never fail.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, regulates the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain the hold, or even assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN Remedies that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it.

These remedies will be sent by express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, No. 631, ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

THE HOOSIER SCHOOL-MASTER.

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER I.

A PRIVATE LESSON FROM A BULL-DOG.

"Want to be a school-master, do you? Well, what would you do to Flat Crick Hartsook, if I like to know? Why, the boys have dry off the last two, and licked the one afore them like blazes. You might teach a summer school when nothin' but children come—But I 'low it takes a right smart man to be school-master in Flat Crick in the winter. They'd pitch you out of doors, sonny, neck and heels, afore Christmas."

The young man, who had walked ten miles to get the school in this district, and who had been mentally reviewing his learning at every step he took, trembling lest the committee should find that he did not know enough, was somewhat taken aback at this greeting from "old Jack Means," who was the first trustee that he lighted on. The impression made by these ominous remarks was emphasized by the glances which he received from Jack Means' two sons. The older one eyed him from the top of his brawny shoulders with that amiable look which a big dog turns on a little one before shaking him. Ralph Hartsook had never thought of being measured by the standard of muscle. This notion of beating education into young savages in spite of themselves, dashed his ardor.

He had walked right to where Jack Means

The Beaver Argus.

J. WETJAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Beaver, Pa., Oct. 25th, 1871.

IT is now definitely ascertained that the Republican majority in the Pennsylvania Legislature on joint ballot will be twenty-five. The House will be composed of sixty-two Republicans, thirty-seven Democrats, and one Temperance—the latter from Lancaster county. In the Senate the Republicans will have one majority, the members of that body numbering seventeen Republicans and sixteen Democrats.

THERE is a mass of people who, in all the leading acts which govern their lives, are led entirely too much by certain persons who have more or less influence over them. This fact holds good especially, in religion and politics. In religion, they must follow to the very end of their lives the most absurd orthodox customs and beliefs. In politics, if once a Democrat, always a Democrat. If a Democratic paper suited their political belief years before the late war, it must, as a matter of course, to-day. They will admit of no change, arising from necessity; countenance no platform, the growth of to-day.

If a national evil be done away with, it is an infringement on state rights. If an amendment suggested to the Constitution, demanded by the growth and internal changes of the country, incident to age, it is an usurpation of power by those in authority. If mob law and fanatical outrages be put down by the military arm, it is the despot, governing by the bayonet.

Democrats of America, read something besides your old Democratic spelling-books of twenty years ago. They answered then, but old things have become new, your Democratic neighbor of progressive ideas, is now a Republican; he fought to do away with the one dark stain upon our fair and glorious country; he will vote in future elections, to sustain the great principles of our Constitution, with the amendments attached thereto; and if, in the interest of the country, there were twice as many attached, he would vote for them all. My Democratic friend, renew your acquaintance with your progressive neighbor; read his paper now and then; ask for some of his Republican documents; read them; compare them with your own; show them to your Democratic neighbor, and my word for it, a revival will break out in your neighborhood, you little dream of. You will wonder why you were blind for so long a time to your own interests, and the interests of your country. Like Oliver Twist you will ask for "more;" more light, which the principles governing the Republican party are destined to shed upon all fair investigators. Read the appeals and statistical facts being furnished from various Republican sources. Find out whether all Europe is justified, in calling us the most progressive nation on earth. If she is, then great and wise men must have been in council, and the people of America were growing in greatness day by day.

When again you are called to the polls, show by your vote, and your voice too, that you are for progress, reform, law and the Constitution.

THE Democratic party should per suade itself that its work is done, and it ought to abandon all further efforts to eat up the fruitage of a party, whose every principle is a crown of glory; whose love of country and loyalty to the Government crushed a rebellion which extended over more than one third of our entire territory. A rebellion so groundless, that Alexander H. Stephens said of it—in substance—in a speech made at Crawfordsville, Ga., in December 1860, while it was in its inception "that at present there was no ground for secession"—the cause of the rebellion—"Democracy had ruled the country for nearly half a century, and the South had Ruled Democracy."

He spoke of the "repeal of the Missouri Compromise," The Dred Scott Decision, and the fugitive Slave-law; the nation of Slave-catchers it made of the people of the North and pitted against all these advantages to the slave holding interests, the petty bounty paid to New England fishermen, and asked his "auditors to point out one reason for secession that would stand in history." Yet the ordinance of secession was passed, the old flag was fired upon, and from the North a wall of bayonets was stretched along the border, borne by men who came from every walk in life, from plow, from forge, from work-shop, and we may add from every party, to put down rebellion, and establish republican principles, and as they fought so should they vote.

The Republican party is pledged to the protection of all citizens of the Republic, whether American or foreign born, whether at home or abroad, in the enjoyment of every right guaranteed them by the Constitution, and while there is a Ku-Klux Klan or any other organization in the land, that seeks, by terror or violence to control the ballot of any man, be he white or black, there is work for the Republican party, and its mission is not accomplished, until masked men cease whipping, and driving from their homes and murdering superintendents and teachers of schools; and, until school houses are spared the torch of the incendiary—the work of that party which is the especial guardian of education is not ended.

A party pledged to the protection of home labor; to the development of our great national resources; that offers a homestead to every citizen who desires, and has built railroads to convey him to it; that foster internal improvements, has not yet accomplished its mission.

With the election of a Republican President, let the Southern States untrammeled by Ku-Klux, elect able honest Republican Governors, and the "Lost cause" will have received a blow, which if considered in the logic of events will be the political Appomattox of the Campaign, and do for the extirpation of the lurkings of treason, what the Republicans failed to do at the close of the rebellion in not hanging a score of leading traitors.

MARRIAGE—WHAT IS IT?

The great Apostle to the Gentiles forcibly enjoins his son Timothy to "Hold fast the form of sound words." For words are things. Give a sophist liberty to affix to them such meanings as suit his purpose, and he will reason God out of the universe.

The Marriage is thus defined by all the standard English lexicographers whose works are within our reach at this moment:

By DR. SAMUEL JOHNSTON: 1. "The act of uniting a man and woman for life. 2. State of perpetual union."

By NOAH WEBSTER: 1. "The act of marrying, or the state of being married; union of man and woman as husband and wife; wedlock; matrimony. 2. A feast made on the occasion of a marriage."

By JOHN CRAIG: "The act of uniting a man and woman for life in wedlock; the legal union of a man and woman for life; a feast made on the occasion of a marriage."

By SAMUEL WORCESTER: "The act of marrying, or uniting a man and woman for life as husband and wife; the state of legal union between a man and woman; matrimony; wedlock; wedding; nuptials."

—Every one but Webster makes union for life essential to Marriage, and Webster intimates no dissent from the general dictum.

Consider now the promise required by the Christian Church of every man who presents himself as a candidate for marriage. [We quote from the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, but it is essentially the same in all churches:]

Minister—"Wilt thou have this woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor, and keep her in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all others, keep thee only to her, so long as ye both shall live?—The man shall answer, 'I will.'"

—Now we are not here arguing that the Woodhull-Claflin crowd have not devised or adopted a substitute which is vastly superior to Marriage—we will consider that point in its order. For the present, we only insist on the obvious truth that what they commend and delight in is not Marriage, but something quite other than that, which should be called by its own proper name, whatever that may be. We do not wish to name it; but why should not they? He who has invented something vastly superior to an ax, a hoe, an auger, does not seek to confound it with that which it is intended to supersede: he gives it a distinguishing name, and tries to make the distinction between the old and the new as broad and emphatic as he may. Our new lights, on the contrary, seek to palm off their nostrum for what it is not, and thereby betray their consciousness of its inferior character. No man tries to pass off gold for brass, or silver for pewter: if he tries to deceive at all, he proffers his pewter as silver, his brass as gold, and profits or fails to profit as may hap by the presumed lack of discernment in his customers.

We demand that those who commend the Woodhull-Claflin substitute for Marriage shall commend it as a substitute, and under a distinct name, is not that demand clearly just?—New York Tribune.

MARRYING for money in the expectation of soon becoming a rich widow or widower is a very uncertain speculation. A California correspondent of the Chicago Tribune gives an account of a gentleman, formerly in the Spanish army, who long ago married a widow lady fifty-seven years of age, who was possessed of great riches, with a consumptive daughter. The necessary husband congratulated himself on the probability of speedily coming into full and undivided possession of her fortune. But, alas for the uncertainty of human hopes! that indomitable woman with consumptive tendency, in defiance of all laws of probability, continued to live on until fifty-seven more years had expired, and has only recently departed, at the ripe age of one hundred and fourteen.

FOR cool unmitigated, ignorant impudence, a newspaper over in Butler county, called the Eagle, excels anything we have met with for a long time. An establishment that has not enterprise enough to do its own printing, nor intelligence sufficient to comprehend its own political duty, ought to be very slow in giving advice to others, particularly when its advice is unsolicited. Its long article last week headed, "Beaver ARGUS," was written, no doubt, in the belief that the Radical of this place would copy it,—thereby procuring for the Eagle a little cheap notoriety. But apt as the Radical is to fill its columns with nonsense, we nevertheless feel authorized to state that the Eagle's article will not be copied by that paper for less than ten cents per line. Will the Eagle stockholders pay this price? A meeting of the Directory should be held at once.

We are now heartily glad that a railroad has been built to Butler. Knowledge and steam engines go hand in hand; and we are thoroughly convinced that within a year or two at furthest the people of that county will either insist upon a new editor in the Eagle office or demand its suspension entirely.

THE PENSION BUREAU—INTERESTING STATISTICS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20, '71.

The following facts in relation to the pension system have been compiled from data prepared for the report of the Commissioner of Pensions:

The aggregate annual amount of pensions of widows and dependent relatives upon the roll, June 30, 1871, is less than on the 30th of June, 1870. This was owing to the lessening of individual pensions by minors reaching the age of sixteen years. There were 61,623 Revolutionary soldiers pensioned for service, 11,766 soldiers of the Mexican war, and 103,791 soldiers of the war of the Rebellion pensioned as invalids. It is thought that the annual expenditures for pensions for other than the latter class have nearly reached their maximum, and that during the next ten years they will gradually and materially decrease.

The following is a correct statement, compiled with great care in the Pension Office, of the total number of soldiers serving in the various wars, etc., in which the nation has engaged since 1775. It will appear in the forthcoming report of the Commissioner of Pensions:

Soldiers of the War of the Revolution	$ 25,000
Soldiers of the War of 1812	237,537
Soldiers of the Seminole War of 1817	5,911
Soldiers of the Black Hawk War of 1832	5,737
Soldiers of the Florida War of 1836-42	29,203
Soldiers of the Creek Disturbance of 1836	15,463
Soldiers of the South-Western Disturbances of 1832	3,803
Soldiers of the Cherokee Country Disturbance of 1836	3,966
Soldiers of the N. Y. Frontier Disturbances	1,823
Soldiers of the Canadian Rebellion	1,171
Soldiers of the Mexican War of 1846	73,260
Soldiers of the Rebellion of 1861	2,656,553

It looks very much as though this were to be a winter of almsgiving. The hundred thousand homeless and hungry Chicagoans, after their immediate necessities have been satisfied, must still be sheltered and fed for many months. Then we have the destitute of Michigan and Wisconsin almost as numerous as those of Chicago, and equally shorn of all their possessions. It would be well if a grand organization, similar to the Sanitary and Christian Commissions, were formed all over the country, and the charity of the people made systematic. The ordinary waste of the community—the petty extravagances and indulgences—if restrained and checked, would meet all the demands in the most effective manner.

WITH every mail the evidences accumulates that the disaster of Chicago is but an item in the great calamity which has fallen on the West. The sum of suffering in Minnesota and Wisconsin will far outweigh the misery of Chicago; and as the sufferers are isolated and spread over a vast extent of territory, they have not even the poor comfort of collective sympathy and the fellowship of distress. In many respects, too, their loss is more severe. The pioneer farmer who loses his home loses not only his all, but must face a long winter without work.

HERE AND THERE.

—As women are to do hereafter whatever man has done, we shall probably have great female travelers at the poles and in the tropics, so that Mad. Ida Pfeiffer will no longer be exceptional after the kind. Perhaps the great coming journey-woman is now a young girl in Salem, Mass., named Annie Coker, who shows a disposition and ability to abscond beyond her tender years; for nine times has she run away from home, and according to the latest report, she is now upon her tenth tramp—a most boyish lassie, who in time will develop into a most mannish dame.

—Col. Downing, Chief of the Cherokee Nation, who recently married Miss Ayers, a wealthy and accomplished lady of Philadelphia, met her in that city some years ago. She became much interested in him and his people, and soon after removed to Talequah, with the intention of devoting her fortune and life to the Cherokees, and has since resided there giving herself up to the education of the Nation. She adopted some years ago, Lewis Dowina, son of the Chief, and built for him a handsome residence overlooking the pleasant village. A few months ago Mrs. Downing, a full-blooded Cherokee, died, and Miss Ayers now succeeds to her place in the aboriginal heart.

—How much less felonious than an aggravated assault with intent to kill is it to build a hall which is so deficient in facilities for exit that, in case of fire, half the audience present is likely to be roasted to death? As at Wilmington, Del., for instance, where a hall occupied for a concert by a Sunday school took fire from a muslin curtain. Women and children rushed to the doors; the weaker were trampled under foot; there was some swooning and more screaming, but by the greatest good-luck, nobody was killed. Some public places in all cities are so constructed that, in case of fire, they can be emptied in two or three minutes; but this cannot by any means be said of all our halls, theaters, and churches.

—Here is an item for military organ-grinders: One Marcus Ainsworth of Calais, Vt., last month, did well and truly dig 80 bushels of potatoes in one day, the said Marcus having but one arm. It isn't every man with two arms who can do a better day's work than this. Now, suppose, instead of working to the best of his ability, Marcus Ainsworth had bought a hand-organ, and, planting himself on some pavement, had proceeded to grind "Captain Jinks" for a living, to the indescribable annoyance of his fellow-creatures! We say no more.

—Sacramento, Cal., has had a sensation. The Reporter of that city narrated that a beautiful maiden, dressed in the height of fashion, had been discovered camping in the brush outside Reat, and subsisting on peanuts and potatoes. The policemen immediately armed themselves and went on a journey of investigation. They found the innocent young thing, but alas, for the romance of it! she was over 30 years old, so drunk that she couldn't articulate, and as for her dress, it was like that of the man who kissed the maiden all forlorn. Such was the Beautiful Unknown of Sacramento!

—Actions on the case may be brought for almost every conceivable damage; but Vermont has furnished us with a novelty in this way of litigation. In the suit of Sayler agt. Page, the plaintiff charged that the defendant had given his family the small pox. We should have liked a verdict on this novel declaration, or, what is better, a ruling of the Court upon the sufficiency of the allegation; but the suit has been abated by the death of the defendant. It seems hard enough to have this eruptive trouble without being sued for giving it to somebody else.

THE latest word is that Texas has gone Republican, at her recent election by a large majority. It seems the tide has all set in one way. There is an epidemic of Republicanism. And these good results the Democracy can largely give itself credit for. The attempted suppression of the Orangemen, the Tammany corruptions and kindred other things, are the bad causes of these hopeful issues.

THE NORTHWEST.

The Great Fires of October, 1871.

Mr. J. Disturnell, who is thoroughly informed on the Northwest country, writes as follows: During the past two weeks the great and destructive fires that have been raging in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and Indiana causing, altogether, the destruction of pooperty to an estimated amount of five hundred million dollars, and at least one thousand lives—far exceed all other similar calamities that have befallen this or any other country from a like catastrophe.

The burning of the city of Chicago, which commenced Saturday evening, October 7th, and raged for two days, stands out as the greatest calamity, having destroyed property amounting to about two hundred and fifty million dollars, besides a great loss of life. The heart-rending details of this great conflagration are well-known to the public. About the same time, the prairie south of Brecknridge, Minnesota, took fire. The flames ran faster than the fleetest animals, and soon reached the Big Woods, extending for more than one hundred miles from north to south. There the fire seized upon the underbrush, which was as dry as tinder, and presently the forest was burning in all directions, and a clean sweep of the heavy timber was made for many miles. The roar and crackling of the trees when the conflagration got under full headway could be heard for a great distance. In its course this fire destroyed an immense amount of property—the grain and hay of the settlers, their live stock and farm-houses were burned in an instant, and those were deemed fortunate who escaped with their lives. This fire extended through several large counties, reaching from near the Red river of the north to the Minnesota river, near Mankato, a distance of about one hundred and fifty miles. Many small towns are said to be completely swept out of existence; and at last accounts the woods about Glencoe, Mankato, and New Ulm were blazing still unchecked. It is feared that the fire will make rapid headway toward the Mississippi river below St. Paul.

Next comes the disastrous fires raging in Wisconsin, on both sides of the Green Bay. This is a lumber region extending for upwards of a hundred miles on the west side of Green Bay. Pishtego, standing back from the bay about ten miles, being surrounded by a pine forest, is said to be swept out of existence, with its five or six hundred inhabitants who perished in the flames. The whole shore of Green Bay south to near Fort Howard is said to be on fire.

On the east side of Green Bay the town of Brussels is destroyed, with the surrounding forest in Door county. Here, also, was a great destruction of life and property. Thirty men are reported to have been burned at Pensaukee, Oronto county, Wisconsin, where they were surrounded in a saw-mill, and, being unable to escape, were roasted alive. In abandoned camps in the woods, boots and charred bodies have been found, and great numbers of wild animals have perished.

The great fires raging in Michigan on the shores of Lake Huron are of the most fatal character. The north of the Saginaw river, on both the route lines are reported in the woods back of the shore, near Au Sable and Tawas City—the whole section of this country is devastated by fire.

All that part of Michigan east of Saginaw Bay and north of a point thirty miles above Port Huron, extending to the lake shore, has been completely swept by fire. Huron City, Sandbeach, Elm Creek, White Rock, and Forestville are utterly destroyed, and it is improbable that Port Austin and Port Crescent have escaped. Heart-sickening accounts of women and children burned to death come to us from all sections of Huron and Sanilac counties. Fires are also said to be raging in the woods near Saginaw City. Saw-mills have been destroyed, and other property amounting to $500,000.

A destructive fire broke out in the village of Manistee, Michigan, lying on the east shore of Lake Michigan, October 8th, and raged for nearly a whole day, destroying upwards of 200 dwellings, six large saw-mills, and a vessel at the dock. Estimated loss, $1,300,000. Fires are also reported to be raging in every direction around Lansing, the capital of the State. The town of Grand Junction has been entirely destroyed.

News have been received that the towns of Wayland, Mattewan, Vicksburg, and Holland are almost wholly destroyed, lying in Ottawa, Allegan, and Van Buren counties, bordering on Lake Michigan. A late dispatch says that in Holland, a German settlement, 3,000 people are homeless.

In Ohio a conflagration has been raging west of Toledo, and the whole country is wrapped in smoke.

NINETEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

A High-Handed Measure—The Voice of the People Disregarded.

[From the Harrisburg Telegraph.]

The return judges of the Nineteenth Senatorial District—Cumberland and Franklin—met at Carlisle yesterday, and, in face of a conceded majority of 803 for J. M. Weakley, esq., the Republican candidate, refused to give him a certificate of election! on the pretext that "fraud and bribery have been made use of in obtaining said votes." This, of course is mere pretense—the real object being to keep Mr. Weakley out of his seat and give the Democrats a chance to manœuvre for the organization of the Senate. The return judges are mere ministerial officers whose simple duty it is to examine the returns and give the certificate to the candidate having the majority of votes. In refusing to do this the return judges of the Nineteenth district transcended their duties and committed a gross outrage. Neither the affidavit of Duncan nor the advice of the District Attorney affords the slightest excuse for the perpetration of this outrage. Duncan swears that at the Shippensburg box he heard an offer of two dollars made for a vote—but he does not say whether the offer was made by a Democrat or Republican, or whether the man to whom the offer was made accepted it and voted or not. As for the District Attorney, in giving the advice he did, he either displayed a gross ignorance of law or wilfully violated his oath and honor. If he is an intelligent man, and has studied law to any purpose, he could not "believe" that the return judges "would be justified in refusing a certificate to Mr. Weakley." The whole thing is a piece of rascality concocted by the leaders of the Democratic party, who not being able to retain power by the voice of the people are shameless and vile enough to attempt to snatch it by fraud.

THE MORMONS.

Verdict of Guilty in the Hawkins Case.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 21. The jury in the Hawkins case came in last night with a sealed verdict, which on being opened this morning was found to be guilty. The Court room was crowded and the announcement created much sensation. The counsel for the people moved that the defendant be taken into custody, which motion was stoutly resisted by the defendant's attorneys. The prosecution, however were firm in their demand that the case should take the ordinary course, and the United States Marshal accordingly was directed to hold Hawkins as the prisoner. Time was allowed to prepare a motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment. The penalty of the Utah statute for adultery is imprisonment not exceeding 20 years and not less than three years, or by a fine of not over $1,000, or both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the Court. This is a test case and virtually places all the polygamists at the mercy of the first wife, who, under the act, is the only party who can institute proceedings against the husband. The case was contested on both sides with great determination, and the charge of Chief Justice McKean to the jury last night is spoken of as being eminently able.

THE CUNDURANGO.

A Remarkable Case of Cancer Cure.

The following is a plain statement of facts furnished the Chicago Tribune by one of the most respectable citizens of that city, "and of one whose belief in the curative property of cundurango rests entirely upon the experience in this remarkable case in Washington seeks relief:"

A citizen of Chicago of high standing took his wife, who had long been afflicted, to Washington. Her case was a most serious one, involving a speedy termination in one way or the other. She tried the remedy, and patiently waited for the result. After some days—less than two weeks—the cancer exhibited alarming signs, threatening her with death from bleeding. Dr. Bliss could not account for the change, and immmediate operation was resolved upon, the result of which considering the size of, the cancer and the condition of the lady, was so doubtful that little hope was entertained of her surviving. The knife soon explained the extraordinary condition which the cancer had assumed. The immense growth had become entirely separated from the flesh, but at the same time prevented the latter from healing; the flow of blood was from the unhealed flesh. As soon as the cancerous growth was removed the flesh beneath was found, so far as careful observation could determine, free from disease. There was comparatively little physical distress resulting from the operation. The lady rapidly recovered her strength and is now at her home in Chicago, not only free from every sign or symptom of cancer, but enjoying a degree of health to which she had long since ceased to hope. The theory is that the cundurango had the effect of uprooting and throwing off the cancerous growth, which had attained large proportions and was of great weight; this was substantiated by the fact that the knife was only needed to remove this growth, it having become separated from the flesh.

The Tribune adds: Time alone can tell whether this cure has been permanent; whether the cancer will return, or, if returning, it can be cheked or cured in its early growth by the use of the new remedy. As an evidence of the value of this discovery, if the remedy shall prove to be preventive or curative, it is only necessary to state that no less than 6,000 applications have been made for advice and for the remedy for as many afflicted cases of cancer, and these are but a small portion of those to whom a remedy, or even a palliative, will be a merciful dispensation.

GREAT FIRES.

Swamps and Forests Burning in Several Counties—The Sun Obscured

ROCHESTER, N. Y., October 23.—Extensive fires prevail in the swamps and woods of Monroe, Orleans, Niagara, Genesee, Wayne and Seneca counties. The wind has been blowing a perfect gale since yesterday morning, and much uneasiness is felt throughout the burning district. The smoke obscures the sun to such an extent that lights have to be used in buildings to-day in this city. Reports are constantly coming in of fires in all directions.

AUBURN, N. Y., October 23.—About three acres of forest, known as Chestnut Ridge, near this city, were burned yesterday. The flames were subdued by the united labors of the people of the neighborhood. The Montezuma marshes have been burning for several days. These marshes are two miles wide and about twelve miles in length.

TROY, N. Y., October 23.—The woods near the Shaker settlement, about six miles from here, are on fire, and it is feared considerable damage will be done.

ROXBOUT, N. Y., October 23.—A large fire is raging in the Shawangunk mountains, near Port Hixon. Several hundred acres have already been burned over. A large fire is raging in the woods at Flatbush, near Rondout.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., October 23.—This city is enveloped in smoke. Reports are constantly arriving of fires raging in the woods throughout the country. Two farm houses and other buildings near Walworth, Wayne Co., are reported burned. Several houses, straw and hay stacks, with large woods opposite Seneca Point, Canandalgua Lake, were burned today. It is also reported that several men were burned to death. A rumor comes from Albion, that the Prussian settlement at North Albion, Orleans county, was burned to-day. The wind has subsided this evening. The country is very dry, and there are no hopes of the fires being extinguished until heavy rains occur.

LIMA, O., Oct. 23, 1871.—Extensive fires in the woods and wood piles along the line of the Dayton and Michigan Railroad, about forty miles north of here, have been prevailing for several days past, detaining the trains on that road somewhat. The villages of Leipsic and Alma were threatened with destruction, but escaped by the diligent efforts of the citizens and railroad employees.

Tricks of Jugglers.

A traveler at Kinsai was entertained by the Viceroy, the Amir Kustai, and this was one of the amusements:

"That same night a juggler appeared, who was one of the Great Kaan's slaves, and the Amir said to him, Come and show us some of your wonders!' Upon this he took a wooden ball with seven holes in it, through which long thongs were passed, and laying hold of one of these, slung it into the air. It went so high that we lost sight of it altogether. It was the hottest season of the year, and we were outside in the middle of the palace court. There now remained only a short end of a thong in the conjurer's hand, and he desired one of the boys who assisted him to lay hold of it and mount. He did so, climbing by the thong, and was lost sight of him. The conjurer then called to him three times, but getting no answer, he snatched up a knife as if in a great rage, laid hold of the thong, and disappeared in his turn! By-and-by he threw down one of the boy's hands, then a foot, then the other hand and the other foot, then the trunk, and last of all, the head! Lastly, he came down himself, puffing and blowing, and with his cloth all bloody, kissed the ground before the Amir, and said something to him in Chinese. The Amir gave some order in reply, and our friend then took the lad's limbs, laid them together in their places, and gave a kick, when presently there was the boy, who got up and stood before us! All this astonished me beyond measure."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18, 1871.

The weather still continues fine, and business of nearly all kinds are beginning to be very active. New streets are being made, old ones graded and paved, sewers made and repaired, shade trees set out—all thro' the instrumentality of our new Territorial Government. New buildings are springing up rapidly in all parts of the city.

The Territorial election here which is to come off next month is a subject of much discussion. A proposition to create a loan of four million to be expended in improving and beautifying the city, will be submitted to the people for approval, which at this time seems likely to be the interesting feature of the election.

The report from the State elections just held, are most gratifying to the ardent Republicans in Washington. The local quarrels in Pennsylvania among some of the Republican Heads, caused some to believe that the Democrats would carry the State, and, consequently, no inconsiderable amount of betting has been done by the undaunted Democracy. But now it is all over, however and a general good feeling seems to prevail with both Democratic and sore-headed Republicans alike.

The effect that the recent Republican victories will have on the November elections are being fully discussed; especially those of New York and New Jersey. But little hope were there six months ago of carrying New Jersey, and none at all of carrying New York State; but now even bets can be had that the Republicans will carry both States; New York, by at least fifteen thousand majority. With the settlement of the Greeley-Murphy difficulty it is conceded here by even the Democrats that it would go overwhelming Republican.

Gen. O. O. Howard has been made a victim of a confidence operation in this wise: A fellow by the name of A. G. Clarke called upon the General with the pitiful tale that he was a great sufferer in the recent Chicago fire; that he was a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, that he had money in a St. Louis' bank which was subject to his order, but could not get it quick enough to meet his immediate necessities; and therefore suggested to Gen. Howard that by accomodating him with the small sum of $100—he would be greatly obliged.

The General who by the way is always boiling over with good heart, made the necessary provision for him to receive the "$100." Subsequent developments has assured the General and the public that the said Clarke is not a sufferer in the recent Chicago fire, has no money in a St. Louis bank subject to his order nor is he a newspaper correspondent.

The fact is that this villain and swindler had in his possessions papers, indorsing him as a gentleman, from Senator's Morton and Pomeroy, should be an admonition of warning to the said M. & P. and all other public men against endorsing those whom they are not positively sure are "all right."

Notwithstanding the President and nearly all of the Cabinet officers are absent, the arrivals in Washington are numerous, and the visit to the White house does not seemingly lessen. General Dent, and Col. Robert M. Douglass, the President's private secretary, are daily at their posts making the atmosphere around them as agreeable as possible. Politicians from all parts of the country now here call at the White House to congratulate those in attendance of the recent Republican victories, with the assurance that the Nations's pulse beats warmly in favor of the Administration and the Republican party, and that the results of the November elections will be made more glorious in the Presidential Bureau. Recently appointed to an important office under the new Territorial government here, have been suspended by order of the President in charge of investing two hundred and fifty thousand dollars Government funds and receiving the interest thereon for his own use. General Balloch counts for the discrepancy in this wise: That he only considered the interest he substituted for himself as a sufficient to indemnify him for losses he has sustained by cashing fraudulent bounty claims.

According to the official returns made to the Bureau of Statistics, the total number of immigrants arriving at the port of New York during the months of July and August last, was 50,148, of whom 29,992 were males and 20,156 females.

The annual report on commerce and navigation for the year ended June 30th, 1871 has just been sent to the printer by Dr. Young, chief of the Bureau of Statistics. It will make a volum of about 800 pages, embracing detailed statements of our imports and exports by ar icles, by countries and by custom districts. It also shows the amount entered for home consumption, the amounts entered and remaining in warehouse, the indirect and in transitu trade, products of the American fisheries, of guano from American islands, and of lumber in Maine. The second part contains extended and detailed tables on immigration, showing the number, nativity, age, sex and occupation of the immigrants arriving in the county during the year, together with similar statistics for preceding years. Part third relates to navigation and gives a full account of our shipping business and of the amount of our foreign trade carried in American and foreign bottoms respectively.

It is now no longer denied by any one here, of either party, that there are Ku-Klux in the South, that the only object these Ku-Klux have is to intimidate the loyal people, both white and black, to the end that the ex-rebel Democracy may again reign supreme; that they acknowledge no Constitution or law that does not give them undisputed right to rule the colored man as best suits their selfish purposes. Union men arriving in Washington daily say that the recent exposure of Ku-Kluxism has so far had the effect only to make the Ku-Klux Klan shy; and that there can be no doubt that they are still undaunted and determined in their efforts to torture and murder the Union men.

The U. S. marshal, of N. C., just arrived in Washington, states that as yet none of the leaders of the Klan have been arrested. He believes that it is necessary before there can be any safety to a Union man in his State, to arrest 8,000 or 10,000 of these murderers. The marshal and his deputies have nearly all been indicted by the State Court in consequence of their earnest effort to put down Ku-Kluxism; but there seems but little danger of their prosecuting before they shall have time to do the effective work of demolishing Ku-Kluxism.

Contributions to the fund for the relief of the Chicago sufferers are being rapidly made. Fifty one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, it is thought, will be raised and forwarded to Chicago. The clerks in the different departments are contributing generously. Several of the Republican State associations, in addition to the contributions made by their members in their respective offices, have convened and assessed themselves from $5 to $15 each.

The friends of Paymaster Hodge are quite sanguine that the sentence of ten years to the penitentiary is illegal by virtue of an act of Congress passed July 17th, 1862, which limits the authority to impose such a sentence to cases where by law the same court has power to inflict the punishment of death. Such also seems to be the prevailing opinion among the best lawyers here, and it is thought that a writ of habeas corpus will be resorted to, to liberate him from imprisonment.

An irate little man rushed into the publication office of one of our leading daily papers lately, and pointing to a certain article in a late issue, demanded to know who wrote it. An old fellow, who took part in the late rebellion, was one day blowing in the village tavern to a crowd of admiring listeners, and boasting of his many bloody exploits, when he was interrupted by the question: "I say, old Joe, how many rebels did you kill during the war?" "How many did I kill, sir; how many did I kill? Well, I don't just exactly know how many; but I know this much: I killed as many of them as they did o' me."

Are you Vaccinated?—Small-pox is prevailing in many places; in it not wise, therefore, to use the preventive discovered by the great Dr. Jenner. Five members of a family near Wampum are just recovering from small-pox or varioloid. Two families near Darlington have it. The female seminary in Steubenville, Ohio, has closed for a time, as small-pox has broken out amongst its inmates. ☞ A Missionary, just returned, says he regards Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as beyond all price, and efficacious beyond all other medicine. It is adapted to a great variety of special cases, and is the best pain killer in the world.

A painful report prevailed here last week to the effect that Dr. Riggs, of Beaver, who had been visiting at Pleasantville, this State, for some time past, had received a fall, which would in all probability cause his death. Indeed, it was at one time alleged that the Doctor was dead, and that his remains were hourly expected in this place. We are glad, however, to be able to state that although having received a severe fall the Dr. is not at all in a dangerous condition, and it is more than likely he has by this time almost wholly recovered from the casualty.

You will find with this firm also a splendid assortment of dress goods, and extra great bargains in Hosiery, Shawls, Shirts, Towling, Table Linen, Muslin and everything else belonging to their line.

The Coal Famine.—Owing to the low stage of water in the Ohio river, the inhabitants of the lower towns are meeting with many difficulties in getting their fall and winter fuel. Coal at Cincinnati, Louisville, &c., brings an extravagant price, and but little of it is to be had at those places at any figure. Even in our own locality, where coal is usually plenty, and mines are almost within sight of our door, it has been somewhat difficult for the past two or three weeks to obtain sufficient coal for cooking purposes. This of course is the result of a non-supply of Pittsburgh coal, and a scarcity of laborers in our local mines. Now, inasmuch as there will be little or no coal brought hither from Pittsburgh until a rise in the river occurs, would it no, be prudent for those who have coal mines in this vicinity to throw all the laborers into them, for the time being, that they can possibly get hold of? Somebody has said that "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, if taken at the flood leads on to fortune." Now do not presume to say that the owner of every coal bank in this neighborhood who goes to work at the present time, with a strong force of hands "will make a fortune," but we are nevertheless quite confident that he will make more money by doing so than he will if he suffers the opportunity to pass unimproved. Who will profit by he suggestion?

At Parker's Landing, last week, an individual named Jenkins while on a drunken spree, inflicted a severe cut with a knife in the bowels of one Jerry Maitland, and made good his escape from that section of Armstrong county. The wounded man, it is said, will recover.

MRS. FAST has this week received a new lot of fall and winter hats and bonnets, hat and bonnet frames, flowers, feathers and ribbons, all of which will be sold at very low rates. Call and examine her stock before purchasing elsewhere.

A collection in aid of the sufferers by the recent fires in the Northwest will be taken up on next Sabbath morning in the Presbyterian Church, in this place. The Lord loveth a cheerful giver.

Eighteen copies of the first edition of the Bible ever printed are still in existence. They were printed in Metz between the years 1440 and 1445. Mr. Jas. Lennox, of New York, owns one of the copies, having purchased it at a cost of $3,200.

Chester County Mammoth Corn.—We are under obligations to Rev. John Davis, of Vanport, this county, for several ears of the celebrated Chester county corn, which he raised this season on his property near that village. The ears, here referred to, can be seen at our office, and they are decidedly, large, plump ones. Mr. D. sent to Chester county, last spring, for a peck of seed, and the product of that planting has yielded him sufficient to supply many of his neighbors with seed corn next spring. He is of the opinion that it will produce double the quantity of any other corn in this locality. One ear, shelled by him, yielded eighteen ounces of grain. Farmers, who desire to increase their corn yield next season, should call on Mr. D., in the meantime, and supply themselves with seed.

To Remove Foul Air From Wells.—The dry seasons, such as we are having at present are embraced by many persons to clean out their wells. At such times many accidents occur, from the effects of noxious gas, where proper precautions are not taken. To remove the gas before the descent is made in any well, a quantity of burned but unslacked lime should be thrown down. This, when it comes in contact with whatever water is below, sets free a great quantity of heat in the water and lime, which rushes upward, carrying all the deleterious gas with it, after which the descent may be made with perfect safety. The lime also absorbs the carbonic acid in the well. Always lower a light before descending; if it is extinguished there is still danger of suffocation.

WINTER GOODS just received, at A. S. Harvey's Store, Bridgewater, Pa.

Relief for the Northwest.—Following the custom of other towns and cities, Beaver has begun the collection of money to aid Chicago, Wisconsin and Michigan. A paper can be found at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association where subscriptions can be made by those desiring to contribute to the sufferers. This paper has already been numerously signed and the amount aggregates considerable. The churches of Beaver are also lending a helping hand, and on last Sabbath one week ago, a subscription was taken up in the U. P. Church, and the sum of $117 was realized.

On next Sabbath a collection will be taken up in the Presbyterian Church of this place, which will no doubt be a liberal one. We presume the M. E Church of Beaver will not be behind in the duty of extending material aid to the sufferers in the northwest. Every person should contribute something. None are safe from the devouring element themselves.

Col. Dick Walton of Industry tp., sweetened us last week with a jug of, not whisky, but of sorghum of his own manufacture. It proves to be a No. 1 article. May the Col's shadow never grow less, and may his harvest of coon skins and fox scalps be a very abundant one this season. So say you all.

☞ Remember, now is the time to lay in your supply of those Winter Under Garments to be found at S. & J. Snellenburg's, Broadway, New Brighton.

A Dayton, Ohio, mother, left her little girl, aged five years, at home the other day to take care of the house, while she attended the regular weekly sewing society meeting. She returned in time to see the roof of her dwelling falling in. The remains of the child were gathered from the ashes the following day.

Eakin, Black Hawk; one for M. C. Moore, Rochester, and one for C. J. McKee, New Brighton. Three cents for each letter will bring them to their owners.

About Original Poetry.—"Sarah A. Couch," alias "Molly A. Weaver," alias "Lone Star," sends us some "poetry" this week, entitled, "Words and Frowns." The first verso reads as follows:

"'Twer better that words were unspoken
Than uttered so rashly, my dear;
For they drive you away from my bosom
And draw weather more near."

We respectfully inform "Molly" that the whole of her "piece" will appear in next week's ARGUS, provided she comes in the meantime to this office and pays us at the rate of nine dollars per line for its publication. These are our lowest rates. All original poetical communications intended for this paper must hereafter be accompanied by the cash, at above rates, unless the editor himself sees proper to deviate from the rule.—Persons who are deeply in love with others of the opposite sex, are particularly requested to bear this in mind; and when they commit their thoughts to paper, and wish to give them to the public and ask the ARGUS to become the medium, the "collaterals" must at the same time be shoved within our reach.

Autumn Leaves.—How to Preserve Them.—There runs a German legend that when the September rains are closed upon us the earth mistakes them for the spring time come again, and smiling gaily through the vanishing mist, gets out her summer dresses.

The legend is a very pretty one, and we have much more cause to admire it than they across the water. Our Indian Summer, which in fact is in controversy, stretches from middle September through fall, is as thoroughly national as it is beautiful—America is the sole possessor. But its crowning glory, and the one of which we wish to speak, is its glowing foliage. The mysteries of its magnificent beauty—whether its rare colors are the painting of Jack Frost, or the hectic flush of disease and coming death, and why America should be so unusually favored—is still unsolved by botanists. It is sufficient however that the beauty exists, and the question with us is, how to perpetuate it. It is only of late years that the collection of autumn leaves has attracted much attention, out it is now no less a matter of trade than of pleasure. The fancy shops of the cities are each fall supplied with the rarest specimens, and boxes of them are shipped to Europe, as much by tradesmen as by enthusiastic countesses.

The process of preservation is very simple. A few thick blotting pads, some sheets of drawing-paper, a camel's hair brush and some amber varnish, are all the necessary tools, save a thick book to press the leaves between the blotting pads, so as to extract the moisture before they are varnished and placed upon paper. It is not necessary to wait for Jack Frost's coming to commence operations. To be sure the gayest work waits for his pencil, but early September gives you some specimens that cannot be had later. A grove of maples will show you an occasional branch where a golden glory struggles with a rich green for the possession of the leaf—tints that forget their brightness in the later days. If you stroll deeper into the woods where the summer rains have formed a little swamp about the maple roots, you will find in the drooping branches a blushing pink and carmine that shame the seashells of India, and that keep under varnish as none of the later shades will.—The elm, too, stretches out from its green cloud a branch that seems to have caught the sunshine and imprisoned it; and the bent grasses, the red top, and all the family of agrostis wave their purple blue smoke as never again throughout the fleeting year. It is in early September, too, that the pepperidge drops its blotches of blood on the ground below. It is a magnificent leaf, ovate, hard, and glossy as the English holly, and of the color of a pigon-blood ruby. It is very difficult to find perfect specimens, though, for they are most always insect bitten. Disease is evidently the cause of their color. September is the time, too, watch forest ivy where it clusters over rail fence and boughless trunks. The golden and rosewood shades are now what you are after, it does not bleed till later in the season. The poisonous plant gives the prettiest leaves—and it isn't so very poisonous after all—most persons can handle it with impunity in the fall. The ivy that has five fingers, like your hand, can be handled; that which has three fingers cannot without risk. But, September gleanings are past for this year; profit by our teaching next. We are now in mid harvest of frost-tinted foliage; avail yourselves of the advantages they present.

Pardon of ex-Commissioner Neely.—We have it from reliable sources that the pardon of ex-Commissioner Neely, arrived in the city yesterday, and that the gentleman having possession of the precious document, on reaching Pittsburgh, proceeded immediately to the work house and put it into effect. Mr. Neely was taken in a carriage to his home on Mount Washington, where he received the congratulations of a large number of friends and acquaintances.—Pittsburgh Commercial, October 23.

If these "friends and acquaintances" had their just deserts, they would be hustled into the place themselves made vacant by the ex-Commissioner. Congratulating an avowed corruptionist on his escape from merited punishment is an act that not many men would be proud of.

A Card.—To my many warm personal friends in Beaver county, both Democratic and Republican, through whose partiality I came within sixty-seven votes of being assigned to the Treasurer's office, I take this method of returning my sincere thanks and acknowledging my obligation for this substantial proof of their friendship and esteem.—Although defeated, the generous support given me is a greater satisfaction than the enjoyment of any office.

Rochester, Oct. 17, 1871.

Some one who is fond of statistics has just been counting the number of widows, at the present time residing in Beaver, and fixes it at 51. For a town containing a population of only a little over 1000 inhabitants, this is pretty hard to beat. Bachelors and widowers, dwelling in other localities, and who have thoughts of settling elsewhere, had better turn their attention in this direction. We merely throw out the suggestion, without knowing anything of the matrimonial inclinations of the bereaved ones. They will no doubt be able to make these known themselves on being "interviewed" by the proper persons.

☞ By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen an excellent Drug Store is offered for sale in Rochester. This presents a rare opportunity to a person wishing to establish himself in that business in a large and rapidly increasing community.

Fatal Casualty.—On last Sabbath day (Oct. 23d) Mr. Christopher O'Rourke, of New Brighton, met with an accident which resulted in the loss of his life. Mr. O'Rourke had been west, and when the train on which he was traveling, reached the south end of New Brighton, Mr. O., attempted to jump off, and in doing so fell, and one of his arms was run over by the train, and horribly torn. Medical attendance was procured at once, but without avail. He lingered in great pain until about 4 o'clock, p. m. the same day, when death ended his suffering. Mr. O'Rourke was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss. He was a man of great energy, and his sudden decease will be keenly felt by the community.

PUBLIC SALE IN ROCHESTER.—On Tuesday, November 7th, Mr. J. C. Irvin, of Rochester, will offer for sale a very large lot of all kinds of farming implements, horses, young cattle, and other stock; household and kitchen furniture, &c., &c. The sale will occur at his residence, on the hill, when superior chances of bargains will be offered. oct25-2t.

Gone to Virginia.—On last Monday Wm. Orr, esq., Capt. D. M. Donehoo, of Beaver, and a Mr. Kennedy, of Raccoon township, left this place for a trip through "Old Virginny." They will be absent some two weeks. We suspect their "objective point" in that State is to purchase some real estate, which, it is understood, can now be bought there at extremely low figures.

A Treat all the way from Florida.—We are indebted to our young friend William McKinley, of Florida, son of Thomas Mckinley, esq., of this place, for a half dozen of oranges grown in that State. They are large, plump and made their way hither in an excellent state of preservation. May Will and his family live long in the land.

Ministerial.—Pursuant to adjournment, the Beaver county Ministerial Association met, Oct. 5th, in the Presbyterian Church, Bridgewater. D. H. A. McLean, D. D., President, being absent, Rev. D. P. Lowary was chosen President pro tem.

The session was opened with reading the Scriptures and prayer. Rev. J. M. Shields opened with an essay on the discussion of the question: "The import of the words sheol, tartarus, gehenna and hades, in the Hebrew Scriptures, the Greek Septuagint, & the Latin Vulgate.'

On motion, the essayest was requested to furnish a copy of his essay for publication.

The question was discussed at some length, especially in its philological bearings.

The chairman of the commitee on the constitution reported, and the constitution prepared in committee was unanimously adopted. After which an election was held for permanent officers of the Association; the officers to hold their position for six months. The following are the names of the officers elected: President, C. C. Riggs, D. D.; Vice President, Rev. W. H. Locke; Secretary, Rev. John H. Aughey; Treasurer, Rev. J. C. Wilson; according to the provisions of the constitution, the Association meetings will be held monthly.

Rev. D. P. Lowary was chosen essayest, and the subject for discussion at the next meeting is, "Should Christians engage in the modern dance." On motion, the Association adjourned to meet in the Presbyterian church in Beaver, Nov. 9th, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

J. H. AUGHEY, Sec'y.

The Lancaster Express called upon the world to come up and beat a radish weighing fourteen and a quarter pounds. The Marietta Register, same county, responds with one weighing sixteen pounds. Lancaster is great on vegetable wonders.

Colorado Vegetables.—"Grace Greenwood" has been attending a Colorado Fair, of which she gives the New York Times an interesting account.—Hear her on the vegetable display: "I had seen elsewhere as grand looking stock, but nowhere on earth had I ever beheld such immense, such Brobdignagian vegetables. Think of early potatoes, sound and sweet to the core, weighing six pounds apiece! Consider a turnip, weighing twenty-two pounds! Bring your mind up to a cabbage of 50 pounds! Shudder before an awful blood-beet of sixteen pounds, and make obeisance before a pumpkin actually weighing 130 pounds! I really reverence that pumpkin, that mountain avalanche of Summer sunshine. I would make a pulpit of it, or the platform of a Woman's Rights Convention, or put it to somother sacred or dignified use. Think of Spanish cucumbers by the yard; and wheat, oats and barley more than six feet tall! You need not be surprised to have a Colorado friend write to you from this ranch in this wise: "Sitting in the cool shade of a stalk of barley growing by my door." The display of gold and silver ores was astonishing, and must have been very tempting to one who would "make haste to be rich," knowing not through what weary, painful days; with what wasting fever-dreams, what sickness of "hope deferred" the sky-vein is followed to its deep, dark, secret lair, and by what fierce toil its precious prey is torn from its granite jaws."

In Memoriam.—Your committee appointed to prepare a minute in regard to the death of the Rev. Henry Webber, who sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, at his residence in North Sewickley, Beave county, Pa., February 24th, 1871, beg leave to report. Synod has heard with sincere sorrow of the decease of our beloved brother, the late Rev. Henry Webber. While we, in sadness, bow submissively to the Divine behest, we render thanks to Almighty God for the consolatory assurance that Brother Webber died in the triumphs of faith, and in the assured hope of a glorious immortality. Synod takes pleasure in bearing testimony to the unfeigned piety of our departed brother, and his earnestness and faithfulness in proclaiming the great truths contained in the glorious Gospel of the blessed God, which are able to make wise unto salvation those who receive and practice them. In this work of faith and labor of love, he endured the torrid heat of summer, and the chilling blasts of winter, serving churches at points far distant from each other, never failing to make his appointments, and often preaching three or four sermons on the Sabbath. God abundantly blest his labors giving him many souls as seals to his ministry, and stars in his crown of rejoicing. As an instructor of youth Brother Webber has done the church and country good service. For many years he was principal of North Sewickley Academy, within the bounds of this Synod. This position he occupied at the time of his death. This institution he surrounded with a moral atmosphere. He selected his teachers with reference to their ability to teach the great truths of the Christian religion, as well as the deductions of science and the Great Head of the church pre-eminently blessed their labors. Many times the Holy Ghost was poured out upon the students attendant upon this institution, in copious effusion, and many were converted to God. Numbers have gone out from this institution who are ornaments in society, exerting a healthful Christian influence in the sphere in which God, in his providence, has placed them. Many are in the learned professions, not a few in the ministry of our own and sister churches, proving themselves able ministers of Jesus Christ. Brother Webber was abundant in labors for many years, serving three congregations, Slippery Rock, North Sewickley, and Zelienople; while at the same time he was the efficient principal of the North Sewickley Academy, but his labors on earth are ended. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest, for their labors and their works do follow them." Our fathers, where are they, and the prophets do they live forever? As one after another of our number is called to lay his war-worn armor by and appear in the presence chamber of the king of kings, to give an account of his faithfulness. May we all be suitably affected by the impressive warning, and obey our beloved Savior's injunction, "Take ye heed, watch and pray, for ye know not when the time is."

Synod assures the stricken family of our departed brother, of their heart-felt sympathy in their hour of trial and bereavement, and would point them to the source of all consolation, the blood bought mercy seat, where by prayer they may obtain the comforting presence of the Holy Spirit, which will enable them to bear, with becoming resignation, this afflictive dispensation of Divine Providence till they are reunited in the midst of the Paradise of God.

Synod requests the stated clerk to send a copy of the above minute to the family of the deceased, and to furnish a copy for publication in the Philadelphia Presbyterian, and in the Presbyterian Banner, and Beaver county papers. Respectfully submitted to Synod of Erie, in session at Franklin, Oct. 16th, 1871.

CHESTER BALLOU,
EPHRAIM OGDEN,
JOHN H. AUGHEY.

Colored Stabbing Affray.—On Monday morning a colored man named Alexander Paden, who lives at the forks of the Harmony and Pittsburgh roads, just within the borough limits of New Brighton, appeared before Justice Glass, of the North ward, and made an information from which it appears that on the night previous (Sunday) at about 11 o'clock, three colored men, named George Washington, John Williams and John Scott came to Paden's house, and having called him out on representations that they wanted to talk to him, commenced an assault upon him. During the assault a number of shots were fired by the attacking party, one of which whistled past Paden's head, and John Williams stabbed him in the back with a dirk knife. Paden further declared that he believed the parties came to his house with intent to take his life.

Justice Glass issued a warrant for the arrest of the three desperadoes, and it was placed in the hands of Constable Funkhouser, who succeeded in effecting the arrest of Scott. After a hearing, the Justice committed the prisoner to jail, in default of bail, to await the action of the grand jury. Subsequently the constable arrested Williams on the cars and took him before Squire Sholes at Rochester, who, in default of bail, sent him to jail. George Washington has so far succeeded in eluding the vigilance of the officer, and seems to have made good his escape.

From what we can learn regarding this affray, the parties charged went on a spree on Sunday evening, and had been visiting a number of places before going to Paden's. By the time they got there they were a good deal under the influence of liquor. No other cause for violence has been assigned, as it does not appear that there had been any previous difficulty between them and Paden. Paden has been for some time in the employ of Squire Glass, who gives him a very fair character as an industrious and well-disposed man, and not likely to provoke trouble with any one. He was not dangerously injured, and under the care of Dr. Nippert is rapidly recovering.—New Brighton Press.

The Pennsylvania railroad company kindly offers the facilties of their road, free of charge, for the transportation of all such supplies as are needed for the relief of the sufferers; and, acting in the same spirit, I anticipate with grateful pleasure an appropriate response from every city and town and home in this favored Commonwealth.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

BY HOMO.

To Rev. J. B. Breckenridge:

DEAR SIR:—You state in your essay "that immediately after death the soul is assigned a portion and a local habitation in accordance with its deserts, not in a place of probation or expectancy," but a place of "unmitegated torture in hades."

In the first place it will be best to inform you that the theory of a hell for disembodied men has undergone several changes since the poetic hell of heathenism, through which flowed its mysterious river, bearing the name of Cocytus, came into existence. Heathenism originated both the hell and heaven for disembodied men, located them both in the bowels of the earth. Apostate Jews received from the heathen their notion of an underground heaven and hell, leaving out river and substituting a ditch, or gulf, as an impassable boundary line between the two spirit worlds; or, rather, the division of one spirit world, situated in the heart of a material world, just as the yolk of an egg is enclosed by its shell.

At what time this hell got in there we are not informed, (would that some one could write an essay!); but we are sure it could not have been there at the time God created the earth and pronounced it "very good," unless it was a good hell. And why the heathen, who knew not God, and were unacquainted with his word, should be the first to find out that it was there, is a mysterious matter, if true.

Apostate Christendom, in an early stage of its apostacy, followed the example of the Jewish Pharisees in adopting the heathen notion of the dual nature of man; and, also, their theory of an under-ground home for disembodied men; leaving out not only the heathen view of a river in hell—as the Pharisees did—but making another improvement in the system by leaving out the doctrine of transmigration, which the Pharisees had retained with a little modification.—Thus, instead of allowing, as the heathen claimed, that certain ones could be permitted to live in several different tabernacles, instead of going at once into the under-ground realm, they claimed that all souls, good and bad—upon the death of the body—would go into one department of this under-world of souls.

This improvement on the heathen notion of an under-ground home for disembodied souls, was Catholicism in its incipient stage, before the system was matured—before "the mystery of iniquity" had finished its work of apostacy. At a later period the system was changed, by claiming that Christ went into hell in a disembodied state; or, rather, into one department of this imaginary underworld of disembodied souls, and liberated the righteous ones, and took them up to the skies on the day of his crucifixion or resurrection; which, if true, would contradict Paul's statement: "Unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation," as his return from such a mission to heaven would have constituted his "second" coming, as he was on earth—in his resurrection state—forty days after this event is said to have transpired. If Paul was right in locating the "second" coming of Christ in the future, this notion of a journey to the skies with an army of ghosts (nothing) once shut up in the ground, to form a colony of ghosts in the skies, as a nucleus of the-much-talked-of kingdom in the skies for departed souls, is all a fable. Prior to this wild invention of Catholicism, the theory of a sky kingdom for disembodied men was unknown in the Church.

But, though this theory recognized the vacation of one department of this under-ground abode of disembodied men; that containing wicked ghosts—the hell of Catholicism—was left undisturbed; and the vacated department was recognized as the abode of imperfect saints—those not quite [illegible] dom—and soon it was christened "purgatory," "a place of probation or expectancy," (which you deny). Upon the adoption of this heathenview of an under-world for the "shades of the dead," an effort was made to synchronize this realm with the sheol of the Old Testament Scriptures, and the hades of the New Testament. With the aid of a Catholic (Douay) version of the Bible, and foot notes appended by Catholic officials, we will look at the efforts put forth to estabtish an under-ground realm for disembodied souls—for both good and bad ones before the first advent, and for bad ones only since that epoch. Our version renders the term sheol grave, as often as it renders it hell, but the Catholic version uniformly renders it hell, but appends notes to inform us when it signifies the department for good souls.

1st. Jacob is made to say, "I will go down unto my son into hell mourning." Gen. xxxvii, 35. Foot note—"That is, into limbo, the place where the souls of the just were received before the death of our Redeemer.... meant the place of rest where he believed his soul to be." If Joseph's soul was the son of Jacob's soul there might be more plausibility in this assumption; but a note on Genesis xxii, informs us that God is constantly at work "creating souls;" so, with this view, the soul of Joseph could not have been the offspring, or "son," of Jacob's soul. Jacob did not say "my soul shall go down to the soul of my son," but "I will go down."

2d. But if it is true that disembodied souls—instead of physical men—go to sheol, they must there be enveloped in Satan's grasp, and transported to the skies; thus commencing a sky-kingdom for disembodied souls. This kingdom you accept as all right. "The thief's soul went there that very day." You overlook the time and manner of its origin; and this hell you also accept, only you have ventured to take it out of its material earth-shell, and locate it somewhere—you cannot tell where, having no conception concerning its present latitude, longitude, or altitude—but have rudely annexed purgatory to hell, and call it a place where immortal souls are "tormented unmitegatedly." Believe it, ye who can! We can no more credit such blasphemy against God, our Maker, than we can believe the Pope is infallible, or that Molock is the God that made us. But, we will follow the Catholic picture of hell a little further:

3d. If sheol is the realm occupied by spirit-men, instead of materialmen, this translation of David's statement sounds strange: "Our bones are scattered by the side of hell."—Ps. cxl. 7. No note is here given to inform us which department of sheol is here meant by "hell," but it is a place to which the "bones" of men go. This proves sheol to be the receptacle of corporeal men, instead of spirit-men; for, who ever heard of the bones of a spirit? And we would here inquire of Protestants—and you, sir: Who gave you the liberty to take sheol out of the earth and assign it some unknown aerial location, if bones of dead men are ever transported to that realm? Who ever saw them transported? Is it not better to allow sheol to signify the state of the dead, than to insist that it is the locality of imaginary disembodied men? Remember that "bones" go to sheol.

4th. On Genesis xliv. 31: "Shall bring down his gray hairs with sorrow unto hell," we have the following note: "The Hebrew word for hell is here sheol, the Greek hades; it is not taken for the hell of the damned, but for the place of souls below, where the servants of God were kept before the coming of Christ, which place, both in the scripture and in the creed, is named hell." This sheol, here called "a place of souls," is said to have been "below," and to have had its day prior to the first coming of Christ, having been vacated by its inmates at that point of time—as before noticed—in order to establish a colony of souls in the skies, and begin there a kingdom of disembodied men. But this view of the matter seems to clash with their own rendering of David's language, "They are laid in hell like sheep; death shall feed on them."—Ps. xlix. 14. The inmates of this "hell," or sheol, instead of being disembodied souls, are a class of beings that death can "feed on." Can death "feed on" deathless souls?

The sheol of the Bible is not a place for disembodied souls, but for dead men—men with "gray hairs," and "bones," a place where there is no "wisdom" or "knowledge." Of this place David said—as rendered by the Catholic version—"Let not his hoary head go down to hell in peace, bring down his gray hairs with blood to hell," 2 Samuel, iii 6-9. Hell, when from sheol or hades, is not the realm of "unmitigated tortures," for its inmates, that you represent. Nor is the case of the rich man an exception to this rule; for not one word is said in the record about the rich man's soul. You theologians assume that the soul is meant, though not mentioned. The Douay version reads, "And the rich man also died, and he was buried in hell, and lifting up his eyes when he was in torments." The persons introduced in this record, though dead, are treated as living agencies, by parabolic personification, to illustrate an important truth and are represented as talking, and the conversation here alluded to recognizes the fact that they are dead—"if one went unto them from the dead"—"though one rose from the dead"—thus showing (1) that these personages though represented as talking, were really dead; and (2) that the only way to communicate to the living was by rising from the dead.

This method of setting forth or illustrating truth is used elsewhere, and that, too, in an instance in which hell (sheol) is introduced, and dead men having "bones," and having been slain by the sword, are represented as talking. The overthrow of Pharaoh is thus set forth in Ezekiel, xxxi: 16-18, and xxxii: 21-32. Don't fail to read the text.

My dear sir, we call your particular attention to several facts.

1st. This scene is laid in "hell" (sheol), and not in your theological hell, but in "the nether parts of the earth;" nor is it a hell of disembodied men, for its occupants are those "slain by the sword," even those "which are gone down to hell with their weapons of war," and these "have laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquities shall be upon their bones." It will not be admitted that disembodied men are slain by the sword, nor that they carry "weapons of war" to hell with them, nor that they have "bones;" but such is said to be the case with the occupants of the "hell" here brought to view, it being sheol—the state of the dead, where military chieftans were anciently deposited with their weapons of war, just as Indians now often bury their warriors with a tomahawk by their side.

Though this is a hell of dead men, instead of being a hell of disembodied men, it is said that they "speak" to Pharaoh, and also that "Pharaoh shall see them, and shall be comforted;" while it is said that others have there "borne their shame." Here speech, sight, comfort, and shame are personifications. On the same principle of personification could Jesus represent the rich man as speaking out of hades, which is not a hell of disembodied men, but simply the state of the dead, if indeed Christ is here speaking of two literal men who had once lived on earth, instead of giving an ordinary parable?

On this principle, too, though speaking of dead men, by personification, could he metaphorically attribute to one of them comfort and to the other torment, just as really as "comfort" and "shame" were attributed to dead men in the case just cited? Abraham is represented as saying to the rich man—"Thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, plainly admitting that he was not then alive, though metaphorically represented as talking; else, instead of saying "in thy lifetime," it would have been proper to have said, "in thy former life." In this metaphorical scene, or case of personification, though the persons here presented are really dead, the rich man is represented as requesting Abraham to send Lazarus to relieve him, which being denied, he is represented as requesting him to send Lazarus to his living friends to warn them, lest they also should die in their sins, which request being refused, it is insisted, "If one went unto them from the dead they will repent," showing that the request was not to have the ghost of Lazarus sent, but Lazarus himself and "from the dead," by a resurrection, as Abraham is represented as responding, "Neither will they repent though one rose from the dead"—thus showing that the only idea concerning sending Lazarus was by his resurrection. Death fixes an impassable gulf between the righteous and wicked, preventing any change in point of moral condition; for "the wicked is driven away in his wickedness, but the righteous hath hope in his death." "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord," they "sleep in Jesus."

Death also cuts off all intercourse between the living and the dead, it being admitted, even in this narrative, that the only way to get a communication opened would be by having one rise from the dead, thus rolling back the tide of death. But mark! both in the case of Pharaoh and that of the rich man, the scene is laid in sheol or hades, of which realm you say is "a place of unmitigated torture," but the wise man affirms that "there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom;" so, even if the occupants of that realm were spirit-men, instead of being material men, it would not change the fact that they were unconscious, and consequently the representation of talk must be metaphorical.

Nor is this method of attributing speech to lifeless objects to illustrate a truth anything new. It is said that Abel's blood "cried," and "he being dead yet speaketh," "the blood of sprinkling that speaketh better things than that of Abel;" "the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it". Jotham used this method of speech (Judges ix., 8), attributing a long conversation to the trees of the field, telling what was said by the olive tree, fig tree, the vine, the bramble, and all the trees. The object was to more forcibly impress a point by attributing speech to speechless matter and thus could Jesus impress an important principle attributing speech and feeling to dead men—the hopeless and irremediable condition of all that die in sin, and the comforting hope of the righteous, under the watchful care of angels even in death. If, however, Christ is not here metaphorically attributing speech to the dead by personification, to teach a lesson to the living, as in the case of Pharaoh, I will leave you to grapple with the mighty fact that there is no "knowledge" in sheol or hades, whether it is the abode of spirit-men or material men.

Dear sir, your theological hell of "unmitigated tortures," we venture the assertion that there is not a text of Scripture to be found that leans that way. Nay, more, that it flatly contradicts God's own statement, Job xxxvii, 23, "Touching the Almighty, we cannot find him out, he is excellent in power, and in judgment, and in plenty of justice he will not afflict. Wherefore let mortals reverence him, whom none of the wise in heart can discern." But you wise theologians profess to have found out that God is delighting himself continually in horrible and revolting injustice towards "immortal souls," which you infer are a part of God himself. We could produce many texts bearing on this point, but content ourselves at present, seeing that we have already trespassed, by quoting Psalm cxlv. 9, "The Lord is good to all, and his tender mercies are over all his works." Lam. iii, 33, "For he doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, to crush under his feet all the prisoners of the earth." Ez. xxxiii, 11: As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked. If God has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, in the extinction of their being, how can he have pleasure in exercising his powers to produce protracted and "unmitigated tortures" in conscious suffering, without mercy and without end? Neh. i 9: "What do ye imagine against the Lord? He will make an utter end; affliction shall not rise up a second time." Isa. x, 25, "For yet a very little while, and the indignation shall cease, and mine anger in their destruction."

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.
